

EXPERTISE

Board Certified Acupuncturist (NCCAOM), Certified Animal Acupuncturist, and Certified in Facial Rejuvenation

INTRODUCTION

Molly graduated in 2013 from Maryland University of Integrative Health (formerly, Tai Sophia Institute) with a Masters of Acupuncture Degree and received both her NCCAOM board certification and animal acupuncture certification in 2015. She is also certified in acupuncture for facial rejuvenation. Her acupuncture training allows her to use acupuncture in conjunction with moxibustion, cupping, and electrical stimulation, as needed, to provide the best outcomes for her clients. She has recently been trained in neuro-acupuncture (scalp acupuncture) to treat neurological symptoms, such as seizures, tremors, and strokes. Molly accepts CareFirst, Aetna and Cigna insurance.

Molly feels honored every day to encourage and assist her clients in their healing journey. Even though she has been around acupuncture for over seventeen years, as a patient, student and now practitioner, she is still amazed and astounded at how transformative this medicine can be.
